Aim of the Study

Study the feasibility of the Collective action for effective utilisation of common property resources in the watershed areas.

Objectives of the study

- To assess the situations of CPR in watershed (especially forest land, revenue land, roadside land, water bodies and temple lands) and prevailing institutional mechanisms of the management of CPR and its development.
- To study the other institutional mechanisms existing in the village and find out the method to develop linkage with them.
- To find out the appropriate technical requirements and planting techniques for the promotion of appropriate tree species, medicinal plants, shrubs, etc in the CPR land.
- Study of the usufructs rights, management practices and valuation on the common value of plantations in the Nandapur village of the Koppal district.
